In the beginning there was one land called Eden. The land was lush with forests and green. Sunshine was found all throughout and most of the land was tropical and sub-tropical. Many different types of beings and people lived together on this one land. A plethora of fruits were abundant throughout and there was always more than enough of everything for all beings, human and non-human, to live and thrive harmoniously. The people of Eden were kind and compassionate and were always helping and giving to each other. They cherished the plants and animals and worked together with loving care, understanding that all things in life were connected and that included them. Everyone was joyful and fulfilled knowing all of Eden was taken care of. Throughout years of working together as one, the people began to grow out of this fulfillment and soon grew curious to explore and expand their understanding of their world. This led people to learn of the natures this Eden had. They realized that Eden was formed of Four Basic Elements and that each of these Elements could be matched to the Innate Nature of humans.
